AGAINST MORE TAXES

Opposition To Increased Costs In Amendment No. 2

(By International News Service) Pennsylvania's vote on repeal or retention of the Eighteenth Amendment—a vote overwhelmingly in favor of repeal—nearly reached the two-million mark early today.

Many outlying counties still had not returned a complete unofficial count of the returns. Allegheny County, likewise, was far from complete. Early this morning, the latest tabulation showed:

For repeal, 1,470,987.
Against repeal, 469,133.

HARRISBURG, Nov. 9.—(INS)—With slightly more than 3,000 of the state's 7,926 districts lacking, 11 of the 12 constitutional amendments voted upon in Tuesday's election headed for adoption today.

Opposition of taxpayers to increased taxation was reflected in the vote against amendment No. 2 which would enable cities and boroughs to assess repaving costs against abutting property. The vote in 4,518 precincts was 355,507 against and 265,976 for adoption of the amendment.

All other amendments, three of which authorize the Pennsylvania General Assembly to issue bonds in the amount of $85,000,000, were headed for victory.

The vote on the amendments, with returns from 4518 districts, follows:

Hambling's total of votes on the Democratic ballots was 986; and on the Independent, 13.

Bristol Sport Fans To Have Big Meeting Here

Monday evening will be sportsmen's night in Bristol. Every fan who takes his sports seriously should be interested in the speakers for this event sponsored by the Knights of Columbus at their home at 8 o'clock.

Lena Blackburn, coach of the Philadelphia Athletics and former Bristol favorite, will give an intimate slant on the present "Connie Mack" team. Another speaker scheduled to talk on baseball is "Wid" Conroy, former New York Yankee star of the old days.

Enid Thomas, head football coach of St. Joseph's College, will also address the gathering, followed by Tommy Rely, famous fight referee, who will give the fans a lot of the inside information on what goes on during a fight.

The committee in charge have gone to great trouble to secure these speakers and also furnish vaudeville as an added attraction and urges everyone to get out early in order to secure a seat.

BOOSTERS TO MEET

The Legion Cadet Boosters' Association will meet tonight in the Legion Home at 8.15 for the purpose of nominating and electing officers. This is the annual meeting and all members are urged to attend.

Teachers at Doylestown Censured for "Walk-Out"

DOYLESTOWN, Nov. 9.—As the result of a "walk-out" on the part of some teachers at the recent meeting of Bucks County teachers and directors here, Dr. Carmon Ross, principal of Doylestown schools, this week suggested to the borough school board when it met for business, that in the future the board insist that the county seat teachers remain until the sessions or any future meeting are brought to a close.

"It was very discourteous, to say the least," commented Dr. Ross.

Dr. Ross reported that four townships have not paid any tuition for September and seven townships have not paid for October. The sum of $456 in single tuitions is outstanding.

Submitting the statistical report, Dr. Ross reported that 1105 students are enrolled in the public schools. Only 81 students were tardy during the past month.

The total number of pupils in the high school totals 539. One director made a visit during the month, and fifteen parents visited the school. Mrs. George W. Kerr reported spending a day visiting the school.

There were no students illegally absent three or more days during term to date.

Women Will Express Their Views On State Issues

HARRISBURG, Nov. 9.—(INS)—Members of the Pennsylvania Council of Republican Women meet here on November 13, the opening day of the special session of the state's General Assembly, to express their views on outstanding state issues.

National problems also will come before the three-day convention. The principal discussions, however, will center about liquor control, state finances and unemployment relief, subjects likely to cause merry debate in the legislative halls.

These issues will be discussed by persons already considering them at pre-session conferences with Gov. Gifford Pinchot. Among the speakers at the three-day convention will be Governor Pinchot, Attorney General William A. Schnader, Lieut.-Gov. Edward C. Shannon, Rep. Grover C. Talbot, Speaker of the House, State Treasurer Charles A. Waters, Auditor General Frank E. Baldwin, and Edward Martin, Republican State Chairman.

Other things to be discussed include methods to combat organized crime, a study of changing conditions under the NRA, and the Republican party's function as the minority party of the nation.

U. S. Senator David A. Reed will speak on the duty and responsibility of the Republican party during the Roosevelt administration. Charles Francis Coe, author and criminologist, will speak on "Trends of Our Times."

CARDS TOMORROW

Bridge, "500" and euchre will be played for benefit of St. Thomas Aquinas Church, at St. Thomas Aquinas auditorium, Crofton, tomorrow evening. Playing will start promptly at eight.

MERCHANTS DISCUSS PLANS OF ORGANIZATION

Hear Interesting Addresses By Representative of Trenton Group

NAME A COMMITTEE

An enthusiastic meeting of merchants was held last night in the assembly hall of the Elks Home and plans were discussed for the organization of a merchants' association, which will be representative of the retail business in all sections of the borough.

There were several who addressed the meeting upon the subject and a temporary organization was formed. A nominating committee was named to select officers to be proposed for election at the next meeting to be held Wednesday evening in the Moose Home.

An interesting talk was made by Morris Meadows, Trenton, N. J., and a member of the executive committee of the Mercer County Merchants' Association.

Mr. Meadows urged the merchants to organize into a merchants association. "When you are united in a group working harmoniously together you can accomplish many things. You can eliminate unfair competition and unfair trade practices. Increase your business and get a broader understanding of the peoples' needs."

Richard W. French, NRA chairman in Bristol, was selected to act as temporary chairman of the group and I. Louis Rubin as secretary. The nominating committee comprises the following:

Edgar Spencer, Percy G. Ford, Abe Popkin, Louis Martino and Edward Finnegan.

It is planned to have every merchant in Bristol attend the meeting next Wednesday evening in the Moose home at nine o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Clark, Pittsburgh, were guests several days of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Clark, Buckley street.

A Word of Appreciation

THE voters of Bristol on Tuesday, by exercising their right of franchise, again selected Clifford L. Anderson to be burgess of the borough, and returned to office with him all of the present Republican members of borough council.

The vote as cast was a vote of confidence and one which might well make the candidates receiving it, feel honored. Not only their personal character but their business acumen, honesty and integrity has been given the stamp of unqualified approval.

In a well-phrased statement, Burgess Clifford L. Anderson today expressed what the Courier believes is the sentiment of every local Republican candidate.

Mr. Anderson said:

"Having been elected to the office for which I was a candidate, I take this opportunity to publicly express my deep appreciation of the cordial support that was given me in yesterday's election, and, at the same time, to renew my individual promise of honest, faithful and intelligent service in carrying out the policies of the Republican party, which a majority of our people have endorsed.

"I wish it was possible to thank personally every man and woman who voted for me, and who, by so doing, expressed their confidence in me.

"Upon the other hand, I carry no personal feelings from the contest. Of those who did not see their way clear to support the Republican candidates in this election, I ask fair and impartial judgment of our service in office, confident that it will be of a character to persuade them to support my Party's candidates when another expression of judgment is registered at the polls."

MACON RIDES SKYWAYS WITH GREAT SMOOTHNESS

Purpose of Flight Over Pacific Coast Is To Acquaint With Landmarks

QUIETNESS SURPRISES

By Ellis H. Martin (I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

ABOARD U. S. S. MACON ON ITS MAIDEN PACIFIC COAST FLIGHT ALONG THE CALIFORNIA COAST, Nov. 9.—(INS)—Over the giant hangar she has so recently vacated swings the Macon.

A circle has headed her nearly due south. The steel structure that had loomed so huge as the housing place of the world's largest airship now seemed of trifling stature and insignificant length from 600 feet in the air. The human forms on the ground below became pygmies and the speeding automobile on the distant highway bearing Signor Guglielmo Marconi and Mayor Angelo Rossi back to San Francisco appear as a scuttling black beetle would appear from the top porch step.

Out over the upper reaches of San Francisco floats the Macon steadily gaining altitude. Like a gigantic oil painting the fertile Santa Clara valley with its thousands of acres of orchards, its intensively cultivated fields and orderly town and home sites spreads its panorama.

You are impressed when you finally turn from the open port window by the fact that there is a lack of sense of motion. The roar of the motors has died away. The noise was the echo beating back from earth as the ship took off. The landscape glides underneath but you feel to be suspended in space. Conversation in low tones is possible. In fact you are surprised at

"My Weakness" Has Its Opening Here Tonight

This marks the opening day of the first American motion picture to feature the Continent's most popular screen idol, Lillian Harvey. She is co-starring with Lew Ayres in "My Weakness," the new Fox production starting a two day engagement at the Grand Theatre. It has lightness, humor, song, dance, romance and an indomitably carefree spirit Miss Harvey is reported as the possessor of great versatility in every department of the dramatic art and her first Fox film is said to give her every opportunity.

The story concerns a plain young girl who, quite by accident, becomes a much sought-after person. It is more or less in the nature of a wager that she cannot be made attractive, that she is first put on the road to fame for her beauty. She follows victim with victim, until the very man who made the disparaging wager falls a victim himself.

The supporting cast includes Charles Butterworth, Harry Langdon, Sid Charles, Irene Bentley, Henry Travers, Adrian Rosley, Mary Howard and a number of Hollywood's most beautiful girls.

Authorities Rounding Up Kidnap Gang in Chicago

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—(INS)—With twelve or more members already under arrest, Federal and State authorities today were rounding up the last remnants of a kidnapping gang said to have taken more than $500,000 in tribute from gamblers and bootleggers here in the last three years.

Seizure of the kidnapers, Federal authorities announced, has solved at least nine abduction cases in which the victims paid from $10,000 to $150,000 for their release.

Police and Federal detectives moved secretly to round up the remaining members of the gang at large, but several arrests were expected shortly in raids at Aurora and Southern Illinois.

Scores of raids conducted here in gangland haunts resulted in the round up of twelve suspects. Names of only three of the suspects were revealed as authorities questioned the prisoners here.

Those known to be under arrest are Frank Souder, Benton, Ill., gambler; Dave Jones, of St. Charles, Ill., and Dean Swoley of Peoria, Ill.

The gang, said to have been recruited from the Shelton brothers' mob of Southern Illinois, and the Egan rats, of St. Louis, preyed mainly upon prosperous liquor and gambling leaders here.

REPEAL VICTORY BIG

Harrisburg, Nov. 9.—The counting of ballots on the repeal or retention issue in Tuesday's election went well over the two million mark in Pennsylvania today. At 10 o'clock this morning, with 6896 precincts reported, the vote stood, for repeal, 1,565,390, against repeal, 479,242.

RESTORE PEACE

OPINIONS DIFFER

Washington, D. C., Nov. 9.—A difference of opinion in the view of this government and the Soviets on one of the outstanding problems between the two nations, has become evident in the conversations between Secretary of State Hull and Maxim Litvinoff, the Soviet foreign commissar. This was learned today as Hull and the Soviet statesman resumed discussions over American recognition of the Soviet Union. The difference of opinion, however, is not expected to bloc an agreement whereby American recognition will be extended to the Soviet government.

SOMETHING WRONG

New York City, Nov. 9.—In the mind of J. Thomas McNerny of Queen, was a strong suspicion today that everything was not strictly "on the up and up" in the 85th election district, fifth assembly district, in Tuesday's election. McNerny was a candidate for alderman. There were six members of his family, whose votes were pledged to him. Neighbors also promised their support and McNerny voted for himself, but not according to the official tally sheet "How do they figure that?" asked McNerny indignantly. "I made a hot campaign and I was counting on about 10,000 votes and what do I get—no a single vote; not even my own. I went around to check up and there were three zeros in a row, all signed by the election inspectors." No one apparently could explain the matter.

REVISE RESULTS OF TULLYTOWN ELECTION

Only One Sticker Candidate Was Successful Tuesday

NEW COUNT GIVEN

TULLYTOWN, Nov. 9.—A check-up of election returns for borough officers here show that only one of those who ran for council on a sticker campaign won, instead of three as was originally thought. A group went to Doylestown yesterday and had explained to them the counting of the ballots.

At the Primary election in September Pierson M. Burton, Lester Shoemaker, Harrison Streeter and Wilmer Anderson received both the Republican and Democratic nomination for council.

At the election held Tuesday Jonathan Miller, Walter Strouse, Howard Wright and James Magro ran a sticker campaign in opposition to the four nominated at the primary. Of this group Walter Strouse was the only successful candidate.

Those chosen as councilmen on Tuesday were as follows:

Pierson Burton, R, 101; D, 46; Lester Shoemaker, R, 103; D, 39; Harrison Streeter, R, 102; D, 39; Walter Strouse, D, 116.

PEACE IN THE FAR EAST

The suggestion of General Araki, Japanese minister of war, that Japan summon a Far Eastern peace conference in Tokyo before 1935 has a pleasing sound but needs to be looked at from several standpoints before passing judgment on its value.

There is no doubt that the Far East is a danger spot in world relations. Most of the major powers have vital interests there. This was recognized by implication by General Araki in the suggestion that the conference include, in addition to Japan, the United States, Great Britain, China, India, Russia, France, Holland and Manchukuo.

Japan for the last several years has been actively pursuing a policy designed to give her a position of dominance in the Far East. Her methods have been at times ruthless and in hostile defiance of world opinion. She has gone so far as to violate treaties to which she had subscribed. The fact that the rest of the world has been too busy with big problems nearer home to give much attention to matters farther away may explain the ease with which she has carried forward her general purpose.

Even Tokyo must realize, though, that an accounting time eventually must come. The military and naval expansion plans upon which Japan is actively engaged lend force to this belief. Significant in this connection are the words of General Araki that if Japan failed to follow "the armament replenishment program and the second naval supplementary plan, the red figures in the budget will become black, but the prospect of establishing Far Eastern peace on an enduring basis will be lost, and the people of Asia, led by China, will become permanent servants of the white races."

In other words, she regards herself as custodian of the fate of the people of Asia, and sees the white race as a menace to these.

What would be the purpose of the suggested peace conference? In general, it would be "stabilization" of conditions in the Far East. But Japan's idea of what would constitute stabilization might not agree with that of other powers. A hint of this was given in General Araki's assertion that the Kellogg and the Nine-Power treaties had proved defective and were in need of revision.

These are the treaties Japan is charged with violating in the course she has followed in China. The general apparently would have the pacts revised in a way that would legalize and give world approval to these violations.

The United States is eager to further peace in any part of the world, where it can do so without compromising its legitimate interests. Its participation in such a conference as that suggested by General Araki might be advisable, but it would be fully justified in being alert to the danger of being drawn into a trap.

Henry Ford seems to prefer the role of the lone eagle.

Commissar Litvinoff should feel more or less at home in the present Washington atmosphere.

Many former big business shots are in a position now where they would consider it a compliment for the Government to inquire how much salary they are getting.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a more movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just floats in the bowels. Gas floats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul. Skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel drowsy and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red and white label. Resist a substitute. 25c. 4 drug stores.

CHAPTER FIFTY-SIX

Then came the wedding and Mom forgot everything else. And so did everybody for that matter—and when Mom looked back at it she could see it was the best thing that could have happened.

She saw the two of them kind of acting sheepish and watching her this night—it was a Sunday and Steve usually came in to eat supper with them that night—and motioning to each other and laughing; but they were always teasing each other that way and Mom didn't pay any more attention than usual. She heard Pete say "you" but Steve said "you" and Pete said "not me" and Steve said "not me, either—it's your place" and then Pete said "all right—only stick with me" and then the two of them came up to her with Pete in the lead and Steve right after him and Pete started to say "listen, Mom," but Steve's face got red and she laughed and ran back into the kitchen and Pete yelled, "hey, you said you'd stick with me," but Steve wouldn't come in so Mom and Pete went out and Steve looked at Mom and started crying and Mom put her arms around her and said she guessed she knew and not to cry—then Mom started crying too and Pete looked at the two of them and lit a cigarette and said, "hey, you two, it's not a funeral," and Steve told him to shut his face and beat it; so Pete walked out like he thought the two of them were crazy; and Mom and Steve had a long talk and Steve was real sensible just as Mom knew she would be; and when Pete came in Mom told him he was getting a fine wife and Pete said, "you think I'm dumb, Mom?" and then Mom kissed him and they were both embarrassed because it was the first time she had kissed Pete for a good many years as he never went away or anything and they weren't the kissing kind of a family, anyhow.

Then Pete said: "How about Pop?" and Mom said for them to go on, she would take care of Pop and she knew the two of them had expected her to. So when Pop came back from downtown Mom broke it to him and the first thing he said was, "what do they mean, get married," like he had no idea at all and it was a great surprise to him; then Mom asked him if he hadn't had any eyes in his head for the last two or three years; but by that time Pop was well worked up about it and that eye dropped down and he said he'd have to think about it, as if that made any difference; then he started to walk up and down and preach about getting married in times like these and Mom told him about the times they had got married in but Pop said that was different; and when Mom asked him what he meant he looked at her like she should know better than ask such foolish questions; so Mom let him talk and get it over with; and as luck happened, just as he had finished giving her a hundred reasons why Pete and Steve shouldn't get married, who walked in but Uncle Louie; and when he heard what was going on he said they were crazy to think of getting married and bringing more mouths into the world to feed.

Then Pop turned on him and said he guessed if they brought any mouths into the world they could feed them all right and they'd never have to ask anybody else to feed them; and Uncle Louie came right back and said if Pop was throwing any hints at him he might as well come right out with it; and Pop said Uncle Louie wouldn't know a hint if a brick church fell on him. Then Uncle Louie asked Mom where Pete was going to live and Mom said she supposed they'd go to housekeeping someplace and Uncle Louie said he would take Pete's room. Then Pop said, "by dang, you take the cake," and since Uncle Louie was for the wedding Pop was against it again until Mom told him he should be ashamed of himself, acting that way with a good boy like Pete and the only thing wrong with him was he was afraid the men at the factory would be calling him grandpa; then he looked at her funny and shook his head and said, "Lizzie, we must be getting old," but the funny part was he seemed to like the idea of being a Grandpa; and that eye dropped down and he said, "I'll make a fighter out of the first one," and Mom asked him now he knew it would be a boy and Pop said proudly, "didn't we have all boys?" Pop had always taken a lot of credit for Pete and Tom being boys and Mom always had an idea he was sorry they never had twins so he could brag about that. The men at the factory were funny; if you listened to them you'd think the mothers had nothing to do with it.

Then came the plans about the wedding. Pop was all for a big wedding at first but Uncle Louie said they didn't need a big wedding in church but should have a big dinner at home for all the close relatives. Cousin Emmy tried to take charge of everything at once and made herself the one to stand up with Steve and said she'd wear a new pink lace dress—and Mom thought if the wedding didn't do any other good at all it would be a success if it got Cousin Emmy something else than her flowered chiffon she had been wearing to weddings and funerals and everything else for so many years.

Then Mom stopped all of them and said it might be a good idea if the bride and groom had something to say about it, considering it was their wedding; and Pop said, that's right, and looked at Uncle Louie and Uncle Louie gave Cousin Emmy a black look.

The only one with any sense about it was Tommy. He asked Pete where they were going on their honeymoon and Pete said he didn't know on account of the two garages—that Steve's father could take care of one but he was afraid to leave the other one with Uncle Louie very long; then Tom studied for a second and said, "would you leave it with me?" and Pete looked surprised and grateful and said, "sure, Tom—only I wouldn't expect you to do that," and Tom said, "forget that, Pete—you only got married once so have a good time and anything I can do just call on me and stay as long as you want." Mom's heart was overflowing just to watch the two of them together, both fine boys in their own ways, and she thought it was grand for Tommy to say that to Pete, particularly because Pete had always stood by Tom the same way when he was in college—many's the dollar Mom had sent Tommy which had come from Pete's pocket.

Then Pete said, with Tom in charge, he and Steve might take a little trip at that; and he began thinking about places; then Tom asked him why, instead of spending railroad fare, he didn't buy a little car and the fare would pay a good part of it and he could probably use it later in the business. Pete shook his head and said it was a good idea; then Tom said he didn't want to seem to be butting in but he began naming nice places Pete might stop at, and things to see, which Pete appreciated on account of Tommy travelling around so much. And all the time poor Steve would just sit and watch Tom from behind as if he were somebody awful great; and Mom knew Steve was tickled pink because Tommy was taking such an interest because she had always been afraid Tommy wouldn't approve of her. And Steve whispered to Mom that with a car they could drive out to the country and buy things from the farmers together and save money—Mom could see Steve was going to be like herself and watch every penny.

Most mothers were selfish but Mom tried to be real sensible about it. It was easy to see that Pete and Steve were not the gadabout kind but the settling kind and Mom thought the sooner they were settled down in a place of their own the better—then, if she were taken, she'd know Pete would be in good hands and Pop, too. Steve would be faithful as the night was long and Pete would be, too, and that was something in these days. Steve was neat as a pin about the house and could cook pretty good and what she didn't know Mom would teach her as she was anxious to learn.

Mom had to laugh to herself every time she thought of what Pete had said. Steve wasn't very good at sewing on account of not having any mother and Mom was showing her how to whip a bit of lace on a pillow slip—and Pete stood watching for a minute with a look on his face like he always had when he was teasing Steve and he said: "Give her a crowbar instead of a needle, Mom—" then Steve threw a pillow at him and ran him out. Mom hoped they would keep on like that—but one could never tell what life had in store for a couple of young ones starting out together.

Although Mom couldn't complain, Pop had been a good man and no mother ever had two finer sons than Pete and Tommy—and Tommy would be great again—Mom felt it in her bones. It was funny, seeing Steve's wedding things on the very same machine Mom's mother had sewed Mom's wedding dress—it had been blue, just the shade of Mom's eyes and Pop had always liked it so much Mom cried and Pop felt bad, too, when she had had to turn and dye it; but the sun faded blue so and little Pete had spilled things on it. Mom had intended making another the same shade but light blue wasn't practical and anyhow she had been busy making Pete's little dresses—and here, in another year, Mom might be making things for another little Pete. It would be good to have little feet around again—and although Pop was so sure about it being a boy, Mom had a feeling it would be a girl; she didn't just hope so but she had a feeling just the same.

Mom wasn't any too anxious herself to be a grandmother but once it came she knew she'd be glad. Mom's Grandmother Scroggins always said when they were little they tramped on your apron strings but when they got big they tramped on your heart strings; but Mom couldn't say that—and when she did get to be a grandmother she wouldn't be trying to run their lives like the old lady in the house on the hill.

Well, a person got old.

Macon Rides Skyways With Great Smoothness

The quietness. Officers speak to each other in conversational tones audible only a foot away. Orders are transmitted in the same tone of voice. There is no confusion. There is a man for every post and every man is in his post.

There is no roll and the keel remains so even that you again question motion only to learn that you are now travelling fifty knots an hour at an elevation of 1500 feet with only six of the ship's eight motors in action. Two have been cut out.

Gradually the pleasant California countryside fades from sight. The Macon is just over the Pacific and a silvery white blanket of fog that resembles a far flung snow field with powdered sugar curling trimmings, extends to the shoreline and beyond.

The silhouette of the Macon floats staunchly along below as if to keep company with the creator of the shadow above. A rainbowlike corona from time to time outlines the shadow.

The fog acts as a giant feather bed. Motions that previously appeared smooth becomes smoother. No air bumps with that sort of a buffer to air currents below.

Watch officers scan innumerable gadgets in the control room—every known safety device, every practical navigation aid and every successful means of control are there.

In the chart room, the huge maps are studied. One of the purposes of this flight is to acquaint the navigators with landmarks below, to give the operating officers the "feel" of the coast line below.

One after another these landmarks appear. Point Sur off which the cruiser Chicago was rammed by a freighter in a fog just as dense as the one now blanketing the ocean below. Point Conception, Morro Bay, Point Arguello and dozens of others stand out in bold relief from the air despite the fog which appears to just skirt the water line. The green surf froths impatiently against rocky shores in brief breaks in the fog bank.

A couple of officers in the lounge room sit of the control and chart rooms start a game of "ace and deuce." Greenhorn at lighter than air travel explore the evening miles of "cat walks" that extend from ship end to ship end. It is all very exciting and thrilling but they do not pall the pangs of hunger. And it is a distinctly pleasurable announcement that "chow" is ready.

(The third article of this series will tell of the scouting possibilities of the U. S. S. Macon, and the activities of officers and crew aboard the dirigible.)

Rowan Benson, wife No. 2, was never married, according to the law.

This marital tangle had its inception when Benson was separated from his wife, Belma P. Benson, a week after they were married. They were wed January 2, 1931.

Suit for divorce was filed by Benson and it was granted last April 8. Before the decree was signed, however, Benson married Bina B. Rowan. He died a week after he obtained the divorce.

The tangle was brought to light during a division of Benson's estate. Judge Fred S. Reese in Cumberland County court annulled the divorce decree.

RE-ELECT OFFICERS OF MOTHERS' ASS'N AT MONTHLY SESSION

Members from Sixth Ward, Second Precinct, Provide Program

The monthly meeting of the Mothers' Association of Bristol public schools was held last evening in the high school auditorium.

The election of officers took place and the women who have been holding office during the past year, were unanimously re-elected.

The members of the second precinct of the sixth ward arranged the entertainment and refreshments. The entertainment was in the form of a radio program and impersonations were given of popular radio celebrities.

Refreshments were served in the cafeteria and the remainder of the evening was spent in dancing.

RECIPES

Of course it's not absolutely necessary to serve pie at the Thanksgiving dinner—but most people do! And it's usually mince or pumpkin pie that's chosen as most typical of the traditions of the day. So here are recipes for these pies, as well as some others—a bit lighter—in case you feel that you'd like to be "different."

Pumpkin Pie

- 1 pie shell (unbaked).
- 1 1/2 cups shredded coconut.
- 2 cups cooked, mashed pumpkin.
- 1 cup sugar.
- 1/2 teaspoon mace.
- 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon.
- 1/2 teaspoon allspice.
- 3 tablespoons melted butter.

- 3 eggs, slightly beaten.
- 2 cups milk, scalded.

Line pie plate with pastry. Combine ingredients in order given and mix thoroughly. Pour into crust. Bake in hot oven 15 minutes, then decrease heat to moderate and bake 30 minutes longer.

Another Recipe for Pumpkin Pie

- 1 1/3 quart milk.
- 1 cup boiled and strained pumpkin.
- 1/2 cup sugar.
- 1/3 tablespoon ginger.
- 1/3 tablespoon cinnamon.
- 1/6 cup molasses.
- 1 egg.
- Pinch of salt.

1/3 tablespoon flour mixed in sugar. Combine ingredients and pour in the recipe given above.

pie shell (unbaked) and bake as in Mince Pie

- Pie crust.
- 3 tablespoons lard.
- 3 tablespoons boiling water.
- 1 1/4 cups flour, sifted.
- Pinch of salt.
- Pinch of sugar.

Put boiling water over the lard and mix until dissolved. Add flour with salt and sugar. Divide and line pie plate with half the dough. Reserve other half for top crust. Fill with prepared mince meat and cover. Bake in hot oven for 10 minutes. Reduce temperature and bake 20 minutes longer.

Lemon Meringue Pie

- Prepare and bake one pastry shell.
- 1 cup sugar.
- 3 tablespoons corn starch.

- 2 tablespoons flour.
- 1/4 teaspoon salt.
- Grated rind one lemon.
- 2 cups boiling water.
- 3 egg yolks.
- 6 tablespoons lemon juice.
- 1 tablespoon butter.

Mix half the sugar with cornstarch, flour and salt. Add lemon rind; pour on boiling water slowly, stirring constantly. Cook in double boiler, continuing to stir until thick and clear. Mix remaining half of sugar with egg yolks and lemon juice; add to first mixture, cook about 2 minutes longer until thick and smooth; add butter. Pour into baked pastry shell. Cover with meringue and bake.

Ginger Cake

One cup sugar, one-half cup butter, one cup molasses, two eggs, two teaspoons ginger or one each of ginger and cinnamon, one cup sour milk, one and one-half teaspoons baking soda, three cups flour, some salt, about one-fourth teaspoon.

Pecan Pudding

One cup soft breadcrumbs, two cups scalded milk, one tablespoon shortening, one cup pecans, one cup chopped, seeded raisins; one-half teaspoon salt, two egg yolks, three-fourths cup sugar, one cup lemon (juice and grated rind), two stiffly beaten egg whites. Mix bread crumbs, milk, shortening, nuts, salt, egg yolks, sugar juice and rind of lemon. When well blended add raisins. Mix thoroughly; then fold in whites of eggs. Pour into buttered individual molds, bake 20 to 30 minutes. Serve hot with cream.

PEMBERTON ELEVEN TO PLAY HERE TOMORROW

By Oscar Corn
(High School Publicity Representative)
On Friday, at the local high school field, the strong Bristol High will face several tests when they clash with the hard-fighting Jersey team—Pemberton High.

For years Bristol High has been again and again defeated by their old enemies, Jersey teams. During the past few years Bristol has won only one football contest from a Jersey team—that was last year when Bristol beat the big Mt. Holly team. Tomorrow, they will meet a Jersey team from Pemberton. Will they break the "jinx"?

Throughout this whole season Pemberton has had poor luck; that is, they have not been able to score. However, they have played teams that are "plenty tough" and this may be the big reason.

This Jersey team is big and fast, and they will come to Bristol fighting mad. They plan to get rid of their title—"Scoreless Wonders," and they think that they will be able to do this against the Cardinal and Gray eleven. Bristol has been practicing hard all week and they will be ready to put up a grand fight on Friday.

Both schools have played hard games; Pemberton played five games, and Bristol played seven.

Hockey's Here Again!

By BURNLEY

ICE hockey, the fastest of all games, is back in the sport spotlight once again, with the big league season getting under way shortly. Amateur hockey, one of the most successful winter sports in the East last year, is due to start the 1933-34 season on the ice Nov. 19.

Hockey fans are probably the most rabid of all sports followers, and they are all eagerly awaiting the opening face-off.

Last season's National Hockey League champions, the N. Y. Rangers, are looking forward to another Stanley Cup victory. Les Patrick, brainy mentor of the Rangers, was elected a member of the Rangers' board of directors recently as a reward for his excellent work in piloting the Blue Shirts to triumph in the last Stanley Cup play-offs.

There have been few hold-outs this season, and practically all of the stubborn recalcitrants have come to terms by this time.

Trades and purchases of minor league ice stars have provided the eager hockey fans with plenty of pre-season reading matter.

Ice hockey, for long the national sport of Canada, has certainly captured the fancy of American sports fans. There is no question about it, this dangerous, speedy and thrilling game has come to stay in the U. S. sports world. Many fans even now prefer hockey to baseball, because of the faster tempo of the ice game. The keynote of the modern era is speed, and as hockey is probably the speediest of all sports, its great popularity is not difficult to understand.

Well, it won't be long now before Ching Johnson, Eddie Shore, Howie Morenz and the rest of hockey's famous stick-wielders will be streaking over the ice and banging that rubber puck into the nets!

The doctors and surgeons will have plenty of business as usual when those hardy hockey stars start their regular sessions with all the expected trimmings—dangerous collisions, falls, blows from hockey sticks, etc. And do the fans love to watch the rough stuff!

The friendships it brings—the contacts, the wider horizons—are the prerogatives of growing up.

No item of home equipment can give more happiness to the whole family than a telephone. Why deprive the young folks of its pleasure? You can have one for less than 10 cents a day!
